DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

This application lacks formal drawings. The informal drawings filed in this application are acceptable for examination purposes. When the application is allowed, applicant will be required to submit new formal drawings.

Specification

The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities:

On page 2, first paragraph, the paragraph contains an incomplete sentence and the word technique should not be plural.

The specification is objected to as failing to provide proper antecedent basis for the claimed subject matter. See 37 CFR 1.75(d)(1) and MPEP § 608.01(o). Correction of the following is required: Claim 1 cites an asymmetrical pacing electrode that is not disclosed or defined in the specification. Claim 1 also cites taking pacing thresholds that is not disclosed or defined in the specification.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The claim is unclear regarding the use of the mapping/sensing electrode and the pulsing electrode in the method. The disclosure does indicate they may be considered a system, but there is no mention as to whether they are used in a common catheter simultaneously or sequentially or in separate catheters. The figures show two separate procedures.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over U.S. Patent 6,484,057 to Ideker et al. Ideker et al discloses methods for treating cardiac arrhythmias by implanting pulsing electrodes, the electrodes may be placed against or proximate the atrial epicardium in the pericardial space (Col. 9, lines 3-6). The position of the electrodes may be determined by sensing the activity pattern (this is interpreted as determining pacing thresholds) at multiple locations to determine the position of the pulsing electrode (Claim 32). It is implicit the electrodes would be attached to the epicardium to maintain the critical positioning. Ideker et al do not disclose an asymmetrical electrode. At the time the invention was made, it would have been an obvious matter of design choice to a person of ordinary skill in the art to configure the pulse electrode with any shape because Applicant has not disclosed that a specific shape provides an advantage, is used for a particular purpose, or solves a stated problem. One of ordinary skill in the art, furthermore, would have expected Applicant's invention to perform equally well with any shape electrode that provided the required pulse to establish normal cardiac activity. Therefore, it would have been an obvious matter of design choice to use an asymmetrical electrode in the configuration of Ideker et al to obtain the invention as specified in claim 1.
